William Shakespeare's
Tragedy of Romeo and Juliet
Extra Credit Opportunity

First, carefully read pages 926-933 of the *Massive Purple Text. Second, find and watch a movie adaptation of Romeo and Juliet. There are multitudes of them, but you might need to search, so don't delay. Once you have watched the movie, choose one scene and write an essay comparing it to Shakespeare's original text of that scene. Your essay should follow the directions on pages 926-933 of the *Massive Purple Text. Sloppy, last-minute work will not get you any extra credit, so if you are planning a desperate, slapdash attempt to score a few easy points at the last minute, don't bother. The quality of your work will determine how much (if any) extra credit you receive. The answers to all your questions can be found on pages 926-933 of the Massive Purple Text. Essays are due on or before _____.
